The Department of Sociology and Legal Studies in the Faculty of Arts at the University of Waterloo is seeking an exceptional scholar and researcher for a tenure track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in the area of Contemporary Social Theory and Law beginning July 1, 2017.

The successful candidate must have a PhD in Sociology or socio-legal studies. Evidence of an active research program on contemporary social theory and a demonstrated ability to teach contemporary social theory at the undergraduate and graduate level are required. The successful candidate will also have a research program that contributes to the Department’s thematic area of Crime, Law, and Security and the undergraduate Legal Studies program. Duties will include teaching contemporary social theory at the undergraduate and graduate level, teaching substantive undergraduate courses in socio-legal studies, and supervising graduate students in sociology or socio-legal studies. The ability to develop and teach an array of traditional and on-line courses is required.

The Department of Sociology and Legal Studies is a research-intensive department with diverse academic programs examining many of the most pressing issues confronting societies today. The department offers undergraduate and graduate degrees (MA and PhD) in Sociology and is home to an interdisciplinary undergraduate Legal Studies program. The department provides an intellectually vibrant setting for students and faculty engaging in sociological and socio-legal scholarship and is committed to developing a culture of academic and professional mentorship among students and faculty. Recent growth and change in the faculty complement builds on the Department’s foundational strengths in social inequality and research methods while advancing research and scholarship in the following four substantive areas: Crime, Law, and Security; Knowledge, Education, and Digital Culture; Migration, Borders, and Transnationalism; and Social Inequality and Public Policy.

The salary range for this position at the Assistant Professor rank is $77,000 to $90,000. Negotiations beyond this salary range will be considered for exceptionally qualified candidates. The closing date for applications is Feb 27, 2017.

Send electronic copies of curriculum vitae, cover letter, teaching and research statements, up to three reprints of current journal articles or book chapters, and the names and contact information of three referees to daniel.oconnor@uwaterloo.ca, addressed to Dr. Daniel O’Connor, Chair, Department of Sociology and Legal Studies. Three letters of reference will be requested for applicants invited for an interview.

The University of Waterloo respects, appreciates and encourages diversity. We welcome applications from all qualified individuals including women, members of visible minorities, Aboriginal peoples and persons with disabilities. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadian citizens and permanent residents will be given priority.

“Three reasons to apply: http://uwaterloo.ca/fauw/why.”