Margaret Derry

Franklin Wellington Wegenast, the Life of a German Canadian and His Impressions of Germany in 1938

As one of very few North-Americans, Wegenast visited Germany in 1938 and kept a travel diary, which Margaret edited and for which she wrote an extensive commentary/contextualization.

The talk has been organized by the German-Canadian Studies research group of the Waterloo Centre for German Studies.

When: Tuesday 21 September 2010 1.30pm

Where: Hagey Hall 373

Refreshments will be available after the talk.
