

Keith Cleland

Prof. J. Gostick

Reverse Bipolar Electrodialysis

Bipolar electrodialysis is a commercial process used for the production of acids and bases. The process can be reversed as a means of energy production. This talk will explore the design of a cell and materials for scale up of an energy conversion process.