In Bohnanza, you're a bean farmer trying to earn the most coins by planting, trading, and harvesting your crops as efficiently as possible. On each turn, you must plant beans from your hand and then trade with others to optimize your fields and finally draw new cards to continue the planting and harvest. But be careful – the order of cards in your hand cannot change, so planning and negotiating smart trades are key to avoiding a bad harvest! A unique element of this game is that there are no rules as to how you negotiate your trades between players and so you make the rules (if any!). You will score coins by harvesting large sets of matching beans from your fields. When the deck runs out, the player with the most coins wins!
