Try to end the game with the lowest score by avoiding high-numbered cards – but at what cost? In No Thanks!, players take turns choosing to either take a face-up card (adding its value to their score) or pay a chip (make sure to say “no thanks!”) and pass the decision on to the next player. But be careful! Your chips are limited, and sometimes taking a card is better than giving away your last chip! Score points based on the face value of cards you collect, but consecutive cards only count once so it’s valuable to create runs. The player with the lowest total score at the end of the game wins!
