In this bingo-style game, players take turns using the “Zinger” machine to release two tiles at a time. If you have the same image as the tile on your game card, and you are the first to call it out, you can place the tile overtop the same image on your game card. The first player to fill their entire game card with tiles wins! The game cards are two-sided with a more competitive version that has more shared images on player game cards and a less competitive version with fewer shared images on player game cards.
