Women in Computing Colouring Page

Grace Hopper, born on December 9, 1906, was an American mathematician, computer scientist, and U.S. Navy rear admiral. She helper create the first compiler for computer languages. A compiler translates written instructions into code that a computer can read.