Overview

The three-year part-time Master of Business, Entrepreneurship and Technology (MBET) is a graduate business program that combines interdisciplinary courses with practical experiences in entrepreneurship and intrapreneurship.

Organizational Benefit

MBET students gain high-value skills and knowledge that enable them to make an impact on enterprises and organizations of any size. Employees with an MBET degree:

- Effortlessly navigate ambiguity using creative and critical thinking
- Confidently move ideas forward or create new business ventures
- Pragmatically apply skills and knowledge to drive digital transformation
- Strategically support an entrepreneurial corporate culture

Curriculum

Students complete nine courses on subjects like leadership, marketing, and the entrepreneurial applications of technology, as well as a commercialization practicum. Detailed course descriptions are available on the Conrad School website.

MBET students learn from industry leaders and collaborate with experienced mentors, gaining knowledge they can apply in their workplace or venture.

Schedule

The part-time program's weekend format offers greater flexibility for students to develop their entrepreneurial skills. MBET students learn from industry leaders and collaborate with experienced mentors, gaining knowledge they can apply in their workplace or venture.

Fees
