

IN CONVERSATION

The Problem of Anti-Racist Discourse in Canada & US

CENTRE FOR
FREE EXPRESSION

Anthony Stewart

in Conversation with Vershawn Young

In Visitor: My Life in Canada, Anthony Stewart explores the lack of a recognizable Black anti-racist discourse in Canada and why Canada's lack of expression and commitment to Black anti-racism led to him to give up his full professorship at Dalhousie University to move to a small college in the USA. Join Anthony in conversation with Vershawn Young, Professor of Communication Arts and English, University of Waterloo, and author of Your Average Nigga: Performing Race, Literacy, and Masculinity. Anthony will unpack the differences in the discourses of anti-racism in Canada and USA and the differential effects of those discourses both on himself, as a Black man, and on Black peoples in both countries.

Co-sponsors:

- Edmonton Public Library
- Milton Public Library
- Thunder Bay Public Library
- Toronto Public Library
- Vancouver Public Library

Tuesday
Oct 5th
at 4pm EDT

Event Link:

ryerson.zoom.us/j/91941276567

Ryerson University

Centre for Free Expression
Faculty of Communication
& Design