

Growing Food

COMMUNITY GARDENS, YARD-SHARING PROGRAMS, GARDENING RESOURCES

Name	Website	What they offer
Waterloo Region Community Garden Network (WRCGN)	https://sites.google.com/view/community-gardens-ca/gardens/garden-directory/	The WRCGN aims to promote and assist with the sustainability of community gardens throughout Waterloo Region for all those who wish to garden. Their garden directory and garden locations map provides information and directions to community gardens in Waterloo Region's tri-cities and townships.
Grow-a-Row	https://www.kwurbanharvester.org/	Provides seeds, seedlings, soil, and garden materials to those in need. Maintains list of organizations where produce can be donated in the community. Volunteers welcome.
Maison Verte	https://www.mverte.ca/	Education, research, and community-building to create a year-round supply of fresh greens that are flavourful and nutrient-dense.
Multicultural Community Gardens (a project of the African Community Wellness Initiative)	https://africancommunitywellness.org/mcg/	Gardening space for immigrants and newcomers in the community
Seeds of Diversity	https://seeds.ca/diversity/seed-catalogue-index/	Resources and events for seed saving and plant diversity; seed exchange allows members to share seeds with each other.
Waterloo Region Community Garden Council	https://sites.google.com/view/community-gardens-ca/home	Support for community gardens
Waterloo Region School Food Gardens	https://seeds.ca/schoolfoodgardens/our-project/	Provides schools with food gardens to give students opportunities to learn, play, and work in a garden; learn about health and nutrition; and eat healthy fruits and vegetables.
Yardsharing	https://www.kwurbanharvester	Matches interested landowners with interested gardeners, so people without land can grow food. Pilot project is underway in Victoria Hills neighbourhood