INSTAGRAM HACKING FOR THE RESISTANCE: @AESTHETIC.RESISTANCE

Department: Communication Arts

Project funded by: Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council (SSHRC)

Project co-researchers: Dr. Brianna Wiens, English Language and Literature

DR. SHANA MACDONALD

@aesthetic.resistance is a research creation-based intervention into prevailing Instagram culture that amplifies work from 2SLGBTQIA+ and Black, Indigenous, racialized activists and other equity-deserving communities. It resists the colonial, white supremacist, ableist, and capitalist heteropatriarchal norms of the Instagram platform.

Situated as part of Feminist Think Tank, a feminist digital media research lab, and building on a series of ongoing projects that explore the trajectory of feminist media activism between the 1960s and the present, @aesthetic.resistance provides a database of feminist historical and contemporary media practices that advance “the personal is political” in aesthetic form.

Feminist Think Tank designed @aesthetic.resistance to co-opt the functions of Instagram via a decidedly aesthetic mode of exploratory knowledge production that does not have a predetermined, tangible deliverable – what they call a “feminist Instagram hack.”

For more information scan this QR code.