

GEOG 294

GEOG 294 will introduce you to methods in physical geography, from developing a research question, to critically reading peer-reviewed literature, to building a rain gauge or creating a data management plan. Content will be covered through a series of discussion forums, short lectures, hands-on activities and the development of research proposal. Assessment will be based on participation in the online activities, lab reports and research proposal components.