University of Waterloo Library has been making dramatic changes to the Davis Centre and Dana Porter libraries, increasing and repurposing spaces. With these changes comes the desire to open up Library space to showcase the creativity of our community.

The Library invites the University of Waterloo community to submit works on the theme of Transforming spaces. Accepted works will be displayed in the Davis Centre Library, and featured on our website, social media and other publications.

Submissions
The theme “Transforming spaces” can be interpreted in any medium, although the work must be ready to hang.
