

60 Years at Waterloo: Perspectives of a University

from a corn field
to architectural traditions

Dana Porter Library, May 1967. University of Waterloo Special Collections & Archives, University of Waterloo Archives collection, 2003-12-182

A FREE TALK

1 p.m.

Saturday, Sept. 16, 2017

No registration required

Dana Porter Library, Flex Lab (floor 3)

200 University Ave. W., Waterloo

Free Doors Open parking:

UW Lot HV (on Ring Road) or

UW Lots at St. Jerome's UC and

Renison UC (Westmount Rd.)

In this illustrated talk, Ken McLaughlin, distinguished professor emeritus and the University of Waterloo's official historian, will tell the story of the development of the 1,000-acre campus, and its impact in Waterloo and beyond.

Special Collections & Archives in the iconic Dana Porter Library building will open 10 a.m.-12:30 p.m. and 2-3 p.m.
for behind-the-scenes tours
and an overview of its more than 300 collections, including the University of Waterloo Archives.

15th annual @DoorsOpenWR
www.regionofwaterloo.ca/doorsopen

