Mother Knows Best: What Dhuoda Can Teach Us about Gender, Book Culture, and Politics in the Carolingian World

Medieval Lecture Series
St. Jerome's University and the University of Waterloo

WORKSHOP ANNOUNCEMENT:

Enjoy cheese and pastries, relaxed conversation, and a discussion of Dhuoda's Carolingian handbook, the Liber manualis.

WHEN: Thursday, 4 October 2018, 4:30-6:00

WHERE: St. Jerome's University, SJ2-2002

Reception: 4:30

Lecture: following the reception

WHO: Prof. Dana Polanichka

seputar-Supplocaco reputchri-qərinin operusru cupi horulculor unbertuni ferbere firmaturi Verernencei ipti opychaphui seputchripme indigradigni dignit aldin unbeane fundere porticulor gerit unqua üba que fube fecuni me brachpie Cernenda Lix in hicke comendo soluenda Lix in hicke cel Lectori, Verisicalosi Elli lii;

M-i-

D ctra formatú hoc intumulo Duopane orp!race humatú Loxiñie susupeillá. In crág fragile tell undu suú sucopu

centi adymma R exberngn' illueniada

V torningum isláilli sup roftur deniaiopulchir. I urveissue deluctu o missassi sexui uadenia sirvumi mo rogosum na V. gyoimagneei duluculda. Diriuumerii amro defiya. Sepapttir um fimum canote I urveisui parve pocaitis.

A ngui neille haobhair samam aipea-oian
eof duree tui. D tolomt: illi hucuirre

8 e hine peaintear quit utq-dalogai-oiano omitacore tuideces Roge illien bus almeE etua pposta escutsti iube benian infinelargiri AAN recipiar pi funoritipa i- oQ NALT-OLDINE ISALAH EVIALITUS.

Deseptent hort ut Tecolone us.

Among the many treasures of the Carolingian world is a lengthy handbook written by an aristocratic woman named Dhuoda (c. 800–c. 843 CE). Deeply personal and incredibly learned, the Liber manualis affords this mother her only opportunity to connect to two distant sons: a fourteen-year-old serving as a political hostage at the court of Charles the Bald and an infant taken from her arms while still nursing. This talk will explore what Dhuoda's handbook reveals about Carolingian conceptions of gender, the central role of reading in aristocratic Christian life, and the reach of political communication across both geographical expanses and gendered divisions.

Dana Polanichka is Associate Professor of History at Wheaton College.

This is the first event in the 2018 – 2019 Medieval Lecture Series. The lecture series highlights the over-five-decade history of Medieval Studies on our campus. It promotes communication, encourages collaboration, and enhances the interdisciplinary heart of Medieval Studies.

Co-Sponsored by Medieval Studies and the St. Jerome's University Library

