The North Atlantic Review
Call for Submissions

The North Atlantic Review is an academic journal focused on publishing scholarship from young authors about the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, its member-states’ foreign and security policies and other subjects relevant to contemporary international security. Published by the NATO Association of Canada, the Review seeks to exhibit the world's premier work on these subjects, and highlight youth perspectives on international relations and security.

Additionally, the Review accepts submissions of scholarship related to the topics listed in the Annexure to this message (see below).

The Review invites the submission of original research papers, articles and book/media reviews for its inaugural issue for the Summer of 2021, set to be published on August 31st, 2021. Submissions are open to all students enrolled in an undergraduate or graduate programme, as well as students pursuing secondary education, at any academic institution. The deadline for submissions is July 14th, 2021 at 23:59 hours, Eastern Daylight Savings Time (UTC -4:00).

Please email all submissions to publications@natoassociation.ca, with “North Atlantic Review Submission” in the subject line, and in the form of a Microsoft Office Word document. Additionally, submissions must meet the following criteria:

- Include a creative title and sub-title, an author bio of 100 words, and an abstract.
- Bear footnote citations and a reference list in the Chicago Style, 17th Edition.

For more information on our requirements, style guide and submission process, please contact the Editorial Board at the aforementioned email address. Please prefix all inquiries in the subject line with “North Atlantic Review Inquiry.”

We look forward to receiving your submission.

The Editorial Board
The North Atlantic Review

The NATO Association of Canada | 48 Yonge Street, Suite 610 | Toronto, Ontario, M5E 1G6 | Canada | Telephone: +1 (416) 979-1875 | Twitter: @NATOCanada | Instagram: @NATOCanada | Facebook: NAOC | LinkedIn: NAOC | Website: www.natoassociation.ca
Annexure: Topics of submissions accepted by the North Atlantic Review for publication:

1. The North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), its history, composition, and operations – both past and present, and civilian as well as military;
2. The foreign affairs; strategic, tactical and military matters of any NATO member-state as well as any member-state of NATO’s Partnership for Peace;
3. The internal affairs of any state described as aforementioned, provided the subject is has a tangible effect on NATO and international peace and security;
4. The foreign affairs, strategic, tactical and military and territorial security of Canada, with a preference for content examining NATO, Atlantic defence and Atlanticism;
5. Maritime security of the Mediterranean Sea and any adjacent state/entity;
6. Maritime security of the Arctic Ocean and any adjacent state/entity;
7. Maritime security of the Atlantic Ocean and any adjacent state/entity;
8. Maritime security of the Black Sea and any adjacent state/entity;
9. Maritime security of the Baltic Sea and any adjacent state/entity;
10. The foreign affairs; strategic, tactical and military matters of the People’s Republic of China, with a preference for analyses of implications on NATO and Canada;
11. The foreign affairs; strategic, tactical and military matters of the Russian Federation, with a preference for analyses of implications on NATO and Canada;
12. The foreign affairs; strategic, tactical and military matters of the North American Aerospace Defence Command (NORAD);
13. The foreign affairs; strategic, tactical and military matters of the Five Eyes’ Network;
14. The security of Europe – encompassing national defence, economic security, violent extremism, migration crises and social unrest;
15. Nuclear proliferation and non-proliferation efforts;
16. International cybersecurity and the protection of critical infrastructure from cyber threats;
17. Transnational and international terrorism and violent extremism, with a preference for analyses of implications on NATO and Canada;
18. Disinformation and misinformation, or information commonly termed “fake news”;
19. The security of space, the exo-atmosphere and orbital infrastructure (e.g., satellites);

Any questions about whether a submission meets the stated criteria or not should be directed to publications@natoassociation.ca. The aforementioned list is not exhaustive.

***