PSCI 226
Modern Political Thought
Winter 2021
Lectures posted Tuesdays & Thursdays

Instructor: Dr. Anna Drake
Email Address: amdrake@uwaterloo.ca
(Virtual) Office Hours: By appointment.

Contact Policy: The easiest way to contact me is via email. I will aim to respond within 24 hours (except during weekends and holidays, when I do not answer work email), but given we’re in the middle of a pandemic this may not always be possible.

Course Description: This course surveys some of the key theorists and ideas in modern political thought. This class offers an introduction to a selection of Western texts and, through lectures and tutorials, undertakes a critical analysis of the ideas and concepts within (and between) them. The purpose of this class is not to offer an historical account of the authors, but rather to engage with philosophical ideas and concepts. In engaging in this analysis we will look at the social and political context that informed the works, as well as the implications these ideas have today. Key themes include power, freedom, equality, justice, dissent, the nature of citizenship, and inclusion/exclusion.

Pre-Requisites: PSCI 101 or 225

Learning Objectives:
Upon completion of this course, students should be able to:

- Describe the problems each theorist investigates, as well as identify their main arguments and key concepts
- Think critically about the different arguments and concepts and identify areas of agreement and contention between the different theorists
- Develop critical analytical skills, both written and verbally
  - Develop the ability to read and process political theory
  - Effectively convey understanding of different concepts
  - Develop their own arguments, and be able to support these with evidence
University Regulations:

Cross-listed course
Please note that a cross-listed course will count in all respective averages no matter under which rubric it has been taken. For example, a PHIL/PSCI cross-list will count in a Philosophy major average, even if the course was taken under the Political Science rubric.

Academic Integrity and Discipline

Academic Integrity: In order to maintain a culture of academic integrity, members of the University of Waterloo are expected to promote honesty, trust, fairness, respect and responsibility. See the Office of Academic Integrity webpage for more information.

Discipline: A student is expected to know what constitutes academic integrity, to avoid committing academic offences, and to take responsibility for his/her actions. Check the Office of Academic Integrity for more information. A student who is unsure whether an action constitutes an offence, or who needs help in learning how to avoid offences (e.g., plagiarism, cheating) or about “rules” for group work/collaboration should seek guidance from the course professor, academic advisor, or the Undergraduate Associate Dean. When misconduct has been found to have occurred, disciplinary penalties will be imposed under Policy 71 – Student Discipline. For information on categories of offenses and types of penalties, students should refer to Policy 71 - Student Discipline. For typical penalties check Guidelines for the Assessment of Penalties.

Grievances and Appeals

Grievance: A student who believes that a decision affecting some aspect of his/her university life has been unfair or unreasonable may have grounds for initiating a grievance. Read Policy 70 - Student Petitions and Grievances, Section 4. When in doubt, please be certain to contact the department’s administrative assistant who will provide further assistance.

Appeals: A decision made or penalty imposed under Policy 70 - Student Petitions and Grievances (other than a petition) or Policy 71 - Student Discipline may be appealed if there is a ground. A student who believes he/she has a ground for an appeal should refer to Policy 72 - Student Appeals.

Accommodation for Students with Disabilities

Note for students with disabilities: The AccessAbility Services office, located on the first floor of the Needles Hall extension (1401), collaborates with all academic departments to arrange appropriate accommodations for students with disabilities without compromising the academic integrity of the curriculum. If you require academic accommodations to lessen the impact of your disability, please register with the AS office at the beginning of each academic term.
Text matching software (Turnitin®) will be used to screen assignments in this course. This is being done to verify that use of all material and sources in assignments is documented. Students will be given an option if they do not want to have their assignment screened by Turnitin®. In the first week of the term, details will be provided about arrangements and alternatives for the use of Turnitin® in this course.

Texts:

All books are available as e-copies. You can purchase the Oxford University Press editions (listed below) either here: https://www.redshelf.com/ or here: https://www.vitalsource.com/en-ca/

Other editions—provided they are unabridged—are also acceptable. These titles are also available (for free!!) on the Project Gutenberg site: https://www.gutenberg.org/

Additionally, the other required text (an excerpt of a much larger work) is available on LEARN:

Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels, “Estranged Labor” in The Economic and Philosophic Manuscripts of 1844

All texts are required readings.

Format

This is a lecture course. I will upload two lectures to LEARN each week (on Tuesday and Thursday mornings). Each lecture will be broken into 4-5 modules of approximately 15 minutes each (not exceeding 1h20mins).

Course Requirements, Expectations, and Standards:

Assignments:

Course engagement and analysis:
The aims of this assignment are 1) to keep you engaged in the course, 2) to provide me with a sense of how you’re processing the material and to respond as the course develops, and 3) for you to demonstrate your knowledge via substantive analysis of and engagement with the course material. Five of these assignments deal with course content: in each of these assignments I will set out several questions (approximately 4) that I will expect you to engage with. These questions will appear following our last lecture on each theorist. Assignments will be approx. 1 page, single-spaced and you will have 1 week to complete and upload them to LEARN. Two of the course engagement assignments will be simple course feedback questions that will enable me to check in and to make any adjustments to course delivery as we go: these two (non-theorist related) questions will count for half the value of a regular substantive question assignment (i.e.: together these two feedback questions will count for one grade entry for the course engagement analysis assignment, and are an easy way to boost your grade).
Tests & Examinations:

Essay exams:
There will be 2 essay exams: one due on Thursday February 25\textsuperscript{th} at 5pm and Monday April 19\textsuperscript{th} at 5pm. Each one will consist of two essay questions, which you’ll receive one week before the exam is due and will upload to the LEARN dropbox when complete. Questions will ask you to engage with and apply course material (both assigned readings and lecture material). I will discuss the essay exams further in-class. The second essay exam focuses on material assigned & taught after the first essay exam (although students may have the option of drawing from material taught in the first half of the course). Essay exams will have a 2000 word limit.

Late Policy:
We are in the middle of a global pandemic and I will not penalize students for late assignments. This is (another) tough year: take care of yourselves (and each other). For assignments that are time-sensitive (the exam essays), if you’re unable to complete them on time then we can discuss an alternative exam essay to be submitted later. If you’re able to, please do hand things in on time: this avoids work piling up and lets me give you feedback when it’s most useful. Please note the University does have a deadline for me submitting grades at the end of the term, so you still need to hand things in 😊

Online Support & Services:
The student success office and the writing centre offer a number of online workshops and one-on-one sessions. Counselling services offers a variety of free resources, including coping skills workshops and crisis support.
