Master of Public service (MPS)

The Master of Public Service program is a professional graduate degree, which prepares students from different undergraduate backgrounds to be effective public service employees. It aims to equip students with the knowledge, skills and experience to effectively design and implement policies and deliver services to Canadians, at all levels of government.

MPS students take ten graduate courses from September to April. From May to December, they complete up to eight months of co-op employment. Our students have successfully served as policy analysts, program advisors, business analysts, research analysts, and in many other capacities. In the final term, students work collaboratively in teams to research a public issue and prepare a professional, comprehensive report that draws on the expertise they have developed throughout the program.
