PSYCH 261

FALL 2010

Syllabus And Schedule

These notes have been reproduced for information purposes only. They represent the syllabus and schedule for this course only in the given term noted above.

Communication

Email

Administrative questions should be directed to the Centre for Extended Learning office.

Technical problems with UW-ACE should be directed to Technical Support.

Academic issues (e.g., course content, deadlines, etc.) can be directed to your instructor, Stephanie Solcz, through Course Mail ONLY. Find the link to Course Mail under the Communicate tab in your UW ACE course. DO NOT send email to your instructor's UW email account. Your instructor checks Course Mail at least once per weekday, and you should expect an answer to your questions within 2 business days. (You may redirect your mail from Course Mail to another email address by setting Preferences for your Inbox).

You may also communicate with your instructor via the Ask Your Instructor discussion board (see below).

Announcements

Your instructor uses the Announcements area on the course homepage to communicate items of general information to the class as needed (i.e., new or changing information regarding due dates, instructor absence, etc.). Therefore you should check Announcements regularly throughout the term.

To ensure you are viewing the complete list of announcements, you must click on ALL. Please note you may also be required to click on MORE.

To ensure you are viewing the complete list of announcements, you must click on ALL. Please note you may also be required to click on MORE.

Discussion Boards

Access Discussion Boards from the Communicate tab or Discussion Boards folder. For questions relating to course content, you may use the Ask Your Instructor discussion board. If you have a question that you think might be of interest to other students, use this board. Also, before emailing the instructor, check this board to see if your question has already been answered. Your instructor drops into the Ask Your Instructor discussion board several times per week and posts responses to student questions frequently.

You may use the General Discussion board to pose questions to your fellow students. Two heads are better than one. Looking for study partners, unclear on a particular point, your fellow students may be as helpful as the instructor in enlightening you since they are closer to your level of understanding. Here you may post a question or read questions and answers from other students. The instructor does not monitor this board, but may drop in occasionally to assess student progress.

Information

About the Course Author—Britt Anderson

(Last updated Jan. 9, 2009)

Britt Anderson was born and raised in the United States.

He began his professional career as a physician, graduating from the University Of Southern California School Of Medicine in 1984, and completed residency training in neurology at UT Southwestern in Dallas Texas.

Subsequently, he was a practicing neurologist in the US Air Force and on the faculty of the University Of Alabama School of Medicine in Birmingham, Alabama. While at UAB, he was affiliated with the university's Alzheimer's Disease Center.

Dr. Anderson augmented his medical training by acquiring a PhD in Brain Science at Brown University in Providence, RI where his doctoral and post-doctoral research concentrated on computational approaches to understanding the neural correlates of visual perception.

Today, Dr Anderson is a faculty member in the Psychology Department at the University of Waterloo and affiliated with UW's Centre for Theoretical Neuroscience. Dr. Anderson designed this course in the winter and spring of 2009.

Course Description

This course surveys the field of physiological psychology. Psychology deals with old questions, but it is a young science. Psychology transitioned from philosophy to science when it combined the philosophical questions about the nature of mind and consciousness with the new scientific techniques of physiology. Today physiological psychology is the study of how behavior is determined and influenced by physiological processes. It involves all the methods of neuroscience: genetics, anatomy, electrophysiology; and all the topics of psychology: emotion, perception, and consciousness. In this course you will survey these topics and approaches. A knowledge of physiological psychology is a foundation for all higher studies in all areas of psychology.

Objectives

By the end of this course, students should have a working knowledge of:

- the research methods of physiological psychology
- the basic nervous system anatomy at both the gross and microscopic level
- the basic electrical and chemical events which explain neuronal communication
- the basic neural bases of vision, audition, somatosensation, and motor behavior; and
- the cellular mechanisms of learning, memory, emotion, and language.

This course was designed by Professor Britt Anderson in the Winter term of 2009, after consultation with the professors teaching live versions of PSYCH 261. Materials were modified by the Web Development group at the Centre for Extended Learning. This course is not an abridgement or repackaging of prior live versions.

Policies

Submission Times

Please be aware that the University of Waterloo is located in the Eastern Time Zone (GMT or UTC-5 during standard time and UTC-4 during daylight saving time) and, as such, the time that your activities and/or assignments are due is based on this zone. If you are outside of the Eastern Time Zone and require assistance with converting your time, please try the following online converter.

Accommodation Due to Illness

Students in UW courses who are ill and unable to meet assignment due dates or write a term test or final examination should seek medical treatment and provide confirmation of the illness to the instructor(s) within 48 hours by submitting a completed UW

Verification of Illness Form to support requests for accommodation due to illness. Students in online courses must also provide confirmation of the illness but submit it to the Centre for Extended Learning Office. The UW Verification of Illness Form is normally the only acceptable medical documentation and is available online at: www.healthservices.uwaterloo.ca/Health_Services/verification.html. Note that if you require an accommodation as a result of this illness during the term (for assignments or quizzes), please send an email to your class instructor after you are well. If your course has a final exam and you require an accommodation as a result of this illness, please send an email to examinations@uwaterloo.ca once you are well.

Academic Integrity

In order to maintain a culture of academic integrity, members of the University of Waterloo community are expected to promote honesty, trust, fairness, respect, and responsibility. Check www.uwaterloo.ca/academicintegrity/ for more information.

Grievance

A student who believes that a decision affecting some aspect of his/her university life has been unfair or unreasonable may have grounds for initiating a grievance. Read Policy 70, Student Petitions and Grievances, Section 4, www.adm.uwaterloo.ca/infosec/Policies/policy70.htm. When in doubt please be certain to contact the department's administrative assistant who will provide further assistance.

Discipline

A student is expected to know what constitutes academic integrity [check www.uwaterloo.ca/academicintegrity/] to avoid committing an academic offence, and to take responsibility for his/her actions. A student who is unsure whether an action constitutes an offence, or who needs help in learning how to avoid offences (e.g., plagiarism, cheating) or about "rules" for group work/collaboration should seek guidance from the course instructor, academic advisor, or the undergraduate Associate Dean. For information on categories of offences and types of penalties, students should refer to Policy 71, Student Discipline, www.adm.uwaterloo.ca/infosec/Policies/policy71.htm. For typical penalties check Guidelines for the Assessment of Penalties, www.adm.uwaterloo.ca/infosec/guidelines/penaltyguidelines.htm.

Appeals

A decision made or penalty imposed under Policy 70, Student Petitions and Grievances, (other than a petition) or Policy 71, Student Discipline, may be appealed if there is a ground. A student who believes he/she has a ground for an appeal should refer to Policy 72, Student Appeals, www.adm.uwaterloo.ca/infosec/Policies/policy72.htm.

Final Grades

In accordance with Policy 19, the Centre for Extended Learning does not release final examination grades or final course grades to students. Students must go to Quest to see all final grades. Any grades posted in UW-ACE are unofficial.

Note for Students with Disabilities

The Office for Persons with Disabilities (OPD), located in Needles Hall, Room 1132, collaborates with all academic departments to arrange appropriate accommodations for students with disabilities without compromising the academic integrity of the curriculum. If you require academic accommodations to lessen the impact of your disability, please register with the OPD at the beginning of each academic term.

Use of Computing and Network Resources

Please see the Guidelines on Use of UW Computing and Network Resources.
