Note: These make-up exam sessions are not mandatory. Instructors have the option to accommodate students outside of these dates and times.

To be included in one of these make-up sessions, student information must be entered into Odyssey by the instructor. The course co-ordinator/advisor or Exam Representative can also enter this information upon approval of the instructor into Odyssey. Students who are approved can view their make-up date, time, and assigned seat in Odyssey once the exam print deadline has passed. Students who show up to an Registrar's Office make-up exam session who are not entered into Odyssey or reported to the Scheduling Office will not be permitted to write and will be directed to contact their instructor.

It is recommended that an alternate exam be uploaded into Odyssey, or the instructor may choose to use the existing upload for the make-up exam session(s). All exams must be uploaded and approved by the Registrar's Office print deadlines to be included in the make-up exam sessions. Once the exams are uploaded and approved, the Registrar's Office will print, administer, and proctor the make-up exam sessions in designated rooms (space will be determined and assigned by the Registrar's Office once we have final registration numbers). Instructors are not required to attend the make-up exam but are welcome to attend.

Instructions on how to enter student information and create instructor make-up exam sessions in Odyssey can be found online at Registrar's Office Final Examination Makeup Sessions.

All written Crowdmark exams will be sent to W Print for scanning the day after they have been written unless otherwise requested.

Any exams with Akindi bubble sheets will be scanned by the Registrar's Office and sent to the instructor via email and the written exam in its entirety will be couriered to your department mailroom the next business day.
