EARN A CERTIFICATE OR DIPLOMA IN KOREAN LANGUAGE

Learning a new language can be a challenge. Renison's Korean language courses are designed from the ground up with university students in mind.

Renison's Korean language program is created for beginners within a university setting. Our courses are guided by the philosophy that Korean should be "easy to understand and easy to acquire". In small classes, students learn Korean from the bottom-up and focus on:

- Korean alphabet, vocabulary, and grammar
- Developing comprehension, oral, and writing skills
- An introduction to Korean culture

CERTIFICATE

Undergraduate students at Waterloo can earn a certificate that counts toward their degree. Students must successfully complete the required number of courses and meet the cumulative average.

- CERTIFICATE IN KOREAN LANGUAGE I
(four courses in level 100 or 200, cumulative average 70%)
- CERTIFICATE IN KOREAN LANGUAGE II
(four courses in level 200 or 300, cumulative average 70%)

DIPLOMA

Students enrolled in a non-degree or post-degree academic plan at Waterloo are eligible to earn a diploma.

- DIPLOMA IN KOREAN LANGUAGE
(six KOREA courses, cumulative average 65%)

CONNECT KOREAN LANGUAGE TO YOUR STUDIES

Korean courses can count towards breadth requirements for various programs at Waterloo, including:

- Applied Language Studies
- East Asian Studies
- Global Experience Certificate
- International Studies
- International Trade

"I really enjoyed my time learning Korean in and out of class, and I made some of my best friends along the way. Korean is a beautiful and very different language from what I am accustomed to and I cannot say enough how fortunate I feel to have had this opportunity."

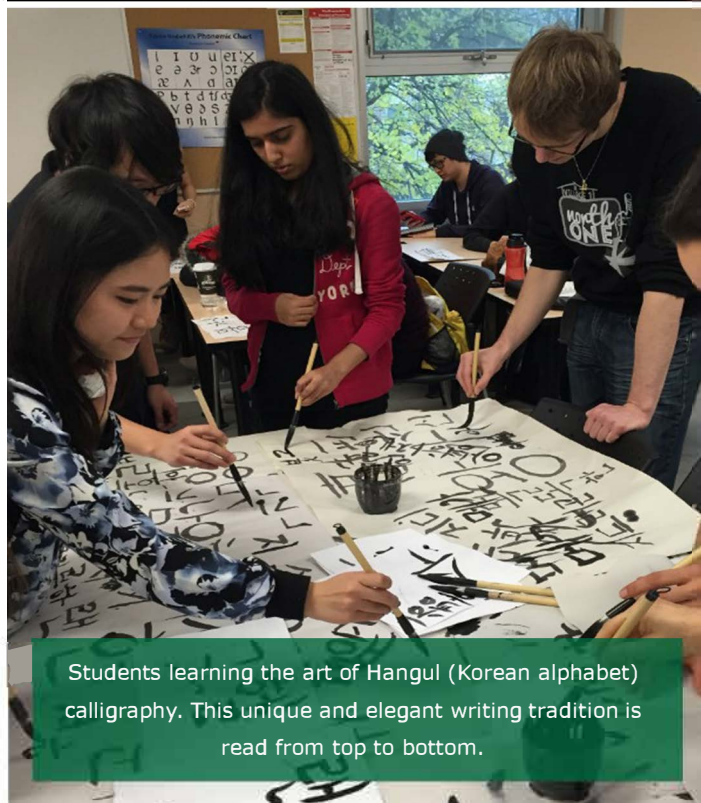

- KATE, Korean Language Certificate Candidate
