The wind is blowing, the sky is a swirl of ominous clouds and the temperature is barely 17 degrees. The love of my life just came into the room and wondered aloud if we might ever have a summer this year in Kitchener-Waterloo. Yes, it’s the 2nd week of July, and you’ll forgive me if I admit to having difficulty looking ahead to the fall season with a modicum of enthusiasm. After all, we had snow on April 6; the temperature dipped below -2 degrees in mid-May; our last frost warning was on June 2nd, and here we are into what we normally think of as “summer in full swing” with all of 17 degrees today. It certainly speaks to climate “change”, if not “warming”. I sincerely hope that by the time you read this, there will have been many lovelier summer days.

However, if I can’t yet get enthusiastic about the next season from the perspective of weather, I can certainly look forward to the slate of autumn activities that lie ahead for UWRA. Please join us at the University Club on September 24th for the Wine and Cheese party that launches our year. It offers an opportunity to mix and mingle with fellow retirees and re-connect with old friends. And just a few days later on September 29th, the first of our two fall coach tours will take us through the towns and villages of the Talbot Tract, south east of London. Then on Oct 20th, Terry Weldon has planned a tour in the autumn countryside with visits to the Dufferin County Museum and the McMichael Gallery. And in November, we’ll welcome Roger Watt as the guest speaker at our fall luncheon. Roger promises to fill us in on the future of the internet. That should be intriguing. You’ll find further details about all of these events (and more) in the pages of this issue, so do read on.

This is also a time of farewell to one of our Board members and welcome to a new member. Barbara Bulman-Fleming, one of our two Social Programs co-chairs and most recently Vice-President has moved to B.C., and we wish her and her husband well in their new home. The Board now includes a new member, and we are delighted to welcome Pat Cunningham, a recent retiree who hails from the Dean of Math office where she served as the Faculty’s Alumni Officer. Special events planning and organizing was a significant part of her role there, and I am happy to say that she has already agreed to take on the organization of UWRA luncheons and to serve as Social Programs Co-Chair. We are grateful to Pat for filling this role and we look forward to having her on the Board.

UW United Way Campaign 2009

The University of Waterloo is gearing up for its 2009 United Way Campaign. Our campus goal this year is to raise $200,000 through the month of October to help the United Way agencies within our community provide needed services to children, families and newcomers of the Waterloo Region.

The retirees of the University of Waterloo have always been generous in the United Way Campaigns. In 2008, you contributed more than 25% towards our record-breaking total of $186,000 in personal donations! We hope that all our faithful contributors – and many new ones – will support the campaign again this year.

Watch for your pledge package in the mail in September, and show that you care! Thank you!
The Editor’s Corner

I managed to get through the second anniversary of my visit to the Cardiac Floor with no problems. Thanks to Jan Weber and all the usual people who help push this newsletter along. Neal has given us a profile of Roger Watt, who will get double exposure as our speaker at the Fall Luncheon. Gerry Toogood has provided us another of his Crostic Puzzles with many clues involving our University. He hopes the solution does not spoil your appetites for the Wine and Cheese or the Fall Luncheon. Terry Weldon tempts us with two more of his bus trips.

The blurb about the United Way Campaign got bogged down in serious technical problems. It nearly had to be delayed until a later issue, but Jan worked her magic and flawless text appeared from utter chaos at the last possible moment. I was resigned to just give you a riddle to make you think about the United Way, so I will give it anyway as a bonus.

Rev. William A. Spooner originated the Spoonerism while riding along on his “well boiled icicle” early last century. See if you can think of a well known precautionary warning which the United Way would never use in case someone subjected it to a Spooneristic twist. (You will find the answer hidden somewhere in this issue.) If you want a further challenge, a different Spooneristic twist on the same old saying could be useful to the local constabulary in the region of the West Pyrennees. (No answer given to this part, and no relation to the United Way. See me at the Wine & Cheese!)

Cheers, Phil Eastman
UWRA Scholarship Report

In 2008-09, the University of Waterloo Retirees Association awarded six scholarships – one to a student in each of the six faculties – for a total of $10,000 (including the UW match). Of the six scholarships, five were undergraduate awards of $1,000 each, while the sixth was a graduate award of $5,000, attracting a $10,000 provincial match. Through this remarkable generosity, the UWRA fulfilled its goal of awarding a scholarship to a student in each faculty with equal funding of graduate and undergraduate awards.

In 2009-10, the uncertain economic situation means only $2,700 will be available from the UWRA scholarship fund. Also, Waterloo’s match this year is set at 90 per cent, rather than 100 per cent as in the past. In light of this shortage, and the desire to create an inclusive and consistent scholarship program, the UWRA Board of Directors has committed an additional $3,000 to the UWRA scholarship fund. This amount, along with the matching funds, ensures the full scholarship program to continue in the same capacity as 2008-09.

This good news is not something to be relied on year after year. However, as we hope for an improved economic situation, we can work to continue the kind of support retirees have already given to this exceptional scholarship program. Through their phenomenal generosity, UW’s retirees are making an immense impact on Waterloo and its talented students.

Fun and Games at the Keystone Karnival

Faculty, staff, retirees, and special guests at Waterloo gathered on campus on June 5 to celebrate the amazing success of the Keystone Campaign to the tune of Keystone Karnival.

Close to 2,000 participants enjoyed the eighth annual June event, acknowledging the campus community’s contributions to Campaign Waterloo. Despite the recent economic situation, the Keystone Campaign achieved remarkable results in 2008-09. With an incredible $9.6 million raised to date from more than 2,400 donors, there was certainly a lot for attendees to be proud of.

The special event launched the annual Keystone Campaign June appeal program. Throughout June and July, close to 5,000 appeal and thank-you packages were sent to staff, faculty, and retirees.

Good times

Profile of Roger Watt
By Neal Moogk-Soulis

 Neal Moogk-Soulis is a MA history candidate at the University of Waterloo. The cooler summer weather has forced him to stay inside and finish his thesis on the CBC in World War II.

Eight months before he was due to retire from the University of Waterloo, Roger Watt applied for a new job. With just a day to spare in September 2006, Roger threw his hat into the ring to run for one of two councilor seats in the Ashfield ward of the Ashfield-Colborne-Wawanosh Township in Ontario’s Huron County.

Ashfield-Colborne-Wawanosh Township was formed in 2001 from the amalgamation of Ashfield, Colborne and West Wawanosh Townships. The Watts have owned a cottage in Ashfield since 1992. The Watts had vacationed along the coast of Lake Huron, camping and renting various properties since 1968. Roger and his wife Susan are both originally from Peterborough. “When I came to Waterloo, I lost all the beautiful things from the Kawartha Lakes,” Roger told me recently by telephone from his cottage. Peterborough was a great place to live in the summer, he told me.

Roger and his wife both attended Kenner Collegiate Vocational Institute and graduated in 1963. “I first saw Susan in grade nine, but it took me until grade thirteen to get the opportunity to get a date,” he said.

A guidance counsellor at KCVI recommended the University of Waterloo to Roger when it came time to decide what to do after high school. A side benefit to applying to Waterloo at the time was that it was the only choice that did not require any French qualifications. Roger applied to Queen’s University and the University of Western Ontario as well, but UW was Roger’s first choice and the first to reply with an acceptance. At the time, none of his friends had heard of Waterloo, and only one other KCVI grad went to Waterloo.

When Roger arrived in Waterloo in 1963, he found that the city was similar to Peterborough in size though the geography was radically different. His mother’s Anglican background inspired Roger to apply to Renison College for residence, which had accommodations for 83 students in separate men’s and women’s wings.

Roger lived at Renison for two years before moving to the new Village I in 1966. The Village was still under construction, and in the fall the buildings were not yet finished. As a result, there were two students to a single room which inspired some creative solutions. “It was crowded, but it was fun,” Roger remembered. Roger moved to the East Quad after Christmas.

As a student at UW, Roger was able to see the university grow. The 1963 UW had four buildings and approximately 4500 students. University Avenue was still called Dearborn, and it wasn’t paved once it passed Phillip Street. “The description ‘of mud and dreams’ was appropriate,” Roger said, “There didn’t appear to be anything paved.”

Meanwhile, after Susan graduated from KCVI she attended teachers’ college and then taught grade five for two years before coming to UW. Roger proposed in December 1967 and they were married a year later. Susan graduated in 1972 with a degree in kinesiology. She became branch director of the Waterloo Family YMCA in the late 1970s, later stayed home to raise a family, and then returned to teaching in 1983.

Roger graduated from UW with a bachelor of science degree in 1966 and a master of mathematics degree in 1968. He considered pursuing a PhD in Computer Science, but he could not find a topic that interested him. By chance a former professor suggested that Roger join the Computing Centre instead.

Its Consulting Services unit had the job of assisting the academics with use of the computers. Roger remembers the old Red Room and key punch machines in the Math and Computing Building. “Computing was the ultimate puzzle palace. No two years were the same. Boredom didn’t exist,” he said. While he started helping academics and grad students to write FORTRAN he remembers many of the milestones including several new computer languages, the introduction of graphics, and the gradual shrinking of the computers themselves.

“It was great fun to come back at night to work in the early 1970s,” Roger told me. The staff were able to run their own computer jobs after 9:00pm, something that Roger did frequently. The joy of going back to work at night fell by the wayside once kids arrived. Jessica was born in 1973 and Lindsay in 1976. Jessica graduated from the University of Guelph with a degree in bio-medical sciences, and Lindsay from McMaster University with a degree in nursing sciences.

Through his experience at UW’s computing facility, Roger occasionally traveled around the world. In 1987, Roger was sent to Australia as a member of an IBM computer user group’s board of directors. When he told Susan of the trip, she told him that she was coming with him. “And when we told the girls that we were going, they said, ‘great, we’re coming too’”. The Watts spent two weeks in Australia and three in New Zealand.

“Jessica got the travel bug while we were there,” Roger told me.
The travel bug inspired a European backpacking tour, teaching English in Japan, working for a Japanese pharmaceuticalservices company, and finally settling in Sydney, Australia, where she recently married. Lindsay worked at Mount Sinai hospital before relocating to Ottawa and then Waterloo with her husband who took a job with RIM. Lindsay and her husband have two daughters. Roger believes that grandchildren are proof that grandparents should have the right to live forever.

After marriage, Sue and Roger began to explore the Lake Huron coastline on summer Sundays including Pinery Provincial Park and the area around Grand Bend. When the girls arrived, they rented cottages from Goderich to Southampton. When Roger came into an inheritance, the Watts decided to invest in a cottage. “We’ve never regretted it,” he said.

Cottage life has been fun for Roger. “You can kill whole days doing nothing,” he said. While at the cottage, Roger tinkers at a variety of projects on and off his property. Projects on the property included improvements such as a new gravel driveway. Off his property, Roger became active in local political and environmental issues. Roger has been involved in a variety of executive roles in cottagers’ associations, and committees of the local conservation authority and water protection steering committee, and he has lately become involved in the discussions about setbacks for wind-turbine farms.

Roger’s father had worked at Quaker Oats in Peterborough for 42 years and Roger spent three summers there as well. Roger remembers telling his father that there was no way that he was going to spend 40 years working at Waterloo. True to his word, he retired one day short of the start of his fortieth year at UW, as the director of network services in Information and Systems Technology, the descendent of the old Computing Centre and Department of Computing Services. “I don’t regret a single day of my 44 years at Waterloo. I had a wonderful time,” he said. “I still visit occasionally to walk the halls.
After a while it feels like I never left, then I know it’s time to leave again.”

As for the 2006 municipal election, Roger came third, 131 and 228 votes behind the two incumbent candidates. In the years since he retired Roger has become more active in the Township and plans to run again in 2010.

A Report on the UWRA
Annual General Meeting

This year the Annual General Meeting of the University of Waterloo Retiree Association was held on Wednesday May 27 at 3:30 pm to 5:30 pm in a new location. It was hoped that moving from the Conference Centre to a more easily accessible meeting place would encourage more retirees to participate in the business affairs of the Association.

The new location, in the Waterfall Room of the Sunshine Centre at Luther Village, was close to parking and passengers could be let off under the canopy at the entrance. The room provided an intimate atmosphere for the meeting which facilitated participation from the floor. A social hour with wine, beer and snacks, held after business was concluded, was well attended and received.

It is proposed to hold the AGM in this location next year and we hope for an even stronger turnout.

Parking on Campus

An inquiry from one of you about possible parking on campus for retirees led us to pursue the question with Sharon Rumpel, Director of UW’s Parking Services. We learned that retirees who “don’t receive compensation from the University other than a pension” can buy a term permit for $28.00 plus tax for either UWP or X lot. Sharon adds that this amounts to “approximately $0.40 per day based on approximately 80 business days in a term”.

According to the Parking Services web site, the following Lots are also available to campus visitors:

- Parking Lot C – $3.00
- Parking Lot N – $3.00
- Parking Lot X – $3.00 (free on weekends)
- Parking Lot M – $4.00

More information about parking lots and their locations is available on the web site:
(http://parkingservices.uwaterloo.ca/rates.html).

Start by answering as many clues as possible. (Semi-colons in some clues are used to separate alternative clues for the same answer.) Next, transfer these letters to the correspondingly numbered squares in the grid. This begins the spelling out of the quotation, reading from left to right, with black squares separating the words. (Words may spill over to the next row; punctuation marks are not included.) Two letters are given.

As you proceed, words and phrases begin forming in the quotation and, working back and forth between the grid and the clue words, you can complete the puzzle. To aid you further, note that the first letters of the clue answers spell out the source of the quotation.

THE FIRST ANNUAL JAMES E. CURTIS MEMORIAL LECTURE

“SOCIOLOGY OF KNOWLEDGE, CANADIAN SCIENCE POLICY, AND THE RE-ENGINEERING OF THE UNIVERSITY”

Thursday, September 24th, 4:00 p.m. McCurdy Hall, St. Paul’s University College, University of Waterloo

Presented by: Dr. Neil Guppy, Department of Sociology University of British Columbia

Direct enquiries to Dr. Keith Warriner, Chair, Department of Sociology, UW. e-mail: wnrr@Uwaterloo.ca

Reception to follow the public lecture
A New UWRA Board Member

I am happy to welcome to the UWRA Board Patricia Cunningham, whose appointment was announced at the Spring Annual General Meeting. While theoretically, Pat’s appointment was as a Member-at-Large, she quickly expressed interest in serving as a Social Programs Co-Chair, working on the organization of UWRA luncheons. Her Board colleagues are simply delighted!

Pat first came to Waterloo as a student in the Faculty of Mathematics from which she graduated in 1973. Her working career at UW began in 1991 in the Offices of Development & Alumni Affairs as a campaign assistant and later as the planned giving officer for Campaign Waterloo. In 2000, she moved to the Faculty of Mathematics as its first alumni officer providing programs and maintaining contact with alumni around the world.

In addition to her 9-5 duties at UW, Pat volunteered as chair for the Keystone Campaign Special Events (2002-04) and as co-chair for the University’s United Way Campaign (2003-present).

Retirement in 2008 has allowed Pat more time to play with twin granddaughters in Peterborough, golf, garden, knit and enjoy reading. New volunteer adventures include serving on the Canadian Federation of University Women Interest groups and as a trustee for the KidsAbility School Authority. To quote Pat, “Life is good!”

UW Recreation Committee – for UW employees and retirees!

Looking for ideas for a day trip during the next few months? Why not get a discount on your tickets? The UW Recreation Committee has online ticket discounts for Centreville (Toronto) Island, the CN Tower, Ontario Place, the Ontario Science Centre, the Royal Ontario Museum and Wings of Paradise Butterfly Conservatory at this time.

The following noon-hour lunch and learns are being organized for the Fall 2009 period. The UWRC Book Club is continuing and the book titles are posted on the web site. Final details can be found on the UWRC web site at http://www.UWRC.uwaterloo.ca. These talks are offered at no charge (unless otherwise specified) but please register through the web registration form if you are attending.

September 2009 (12 to 1 p.m.)

• Reduce, Reuse, Recycle Repair talk with Janine Keller-Ng from Blue Skies Yoga and Eco Store – Thursday, Sept. 17
• Better Breathing, Better Living talk with Michele Cadotte – Tuesday, Sept. 22
• Your Garden in the Fall talk with David Hobson – Monday, Sept. 28

October 2009 (12 to 1 p.m.)

• Card Making with Marg – date to be determined
• Blogging with Aimee – date to be determined • Thinking Beyond with Dr. Tim – date to be determined • Better Breathing, Better Living talk with Michele Cadotte – Tuesday, Oct. 6, 2009 – $5 per session
• Poor Balance, Dizziness, and Falls – date to be determined

Watch the UW Recreation Committee web site as more events get approved and posted. Discounted group tickets for the Robin Hood Pantomime are still available until Tuesday, Sept. 15.

For monthly updates, subscribe to the UWRC listserv by emailing UWRC@uwaterloo.ca.

Answers to a “NOSTALIGIC (but yucky!)” crostic, page 6.

The quotation, taken from “The Map That Changed The World”, by Simon Winchester, follows.

“He tried to eat his way through the entire animal kingdom offering mice in batter and steaks of bison and crocodile to guests at breakfast but reserving the viler things for himself – he declared that he found mole perfectly horrible and the only thing worse was that fat English housefly known colloquially as a bluebottle.”

Roger Watt who was Director Network Services, IST when he completed a 39-year career at UW. The title of his presentation is The Future of the Internet in which Roger will explore the evolution of the Internet that started as a US defense research project in the early 1970s. This talk will review some of the milestones that brought us to today, and look at where expert opinions hope or fear it may be going.

If you would like to attend but need a ride, please call Robin Banks at 519-884-8984.

Reserve your place early to meet with fellow retirees at our Fall Luncheon in the Great Hall, Sunshine Centre/Luther Village on the Park. Bring a guest! (Neither you nor your guest need be a member of UWRA; one of you simply needs to be a UW retiree.)

Our speaker will be Roger Watt who was Director Network Services, IST when he completed a 39-year career at UW. The title of his presentation is The Future of the Internet in which Roger will explore the evolution of the Internet that started as a US defense research project in the early 1970s. This talk will review some of the milestones that brought us to today, and look at where expert opinions hope or fear it may be going.

If you would like to attend but need a ride, please call Robin Banks at 519-884-8984.

Marg & Helen’s Talbot Tract
Our intrepid explorers and historians, Marg Dickson & Helen Koepke are back to take us on their latest expedition, this time to the Talbot Tract, an expanse of land located to the south-east of London, Ontario.

Colonel Thomas Talbot 1771-1853, born in Ireland, joined the army at age 11 and later became secretary to John Graves Simcoe in Upper Canada. In return for his military service, Colonel Talbot, in 1803, was granted 5000 acres of beautiful land just west of Kettle Creek, at Port Talbot. He then set in motion one of the most aggressive settlement expansion plans ever seen.

Helen and Marg will provide us with engaging commentary on the sights and history of this fascinating district. We will visit Harrietsville, Aylmer, Pinecroft, New Sarum, Talbotville, St. Thomas, Sparta, Dexter, Port Stanley, Fingal, Tyrconnell and Dorchester.

The popularity of Marg and Helen’s historical outings is such that they filled eight coaches with eager participants for the Talbot Tract this past spring! Don’t miss it!

Cost: $83 dollars for UWRA members and guests; $88 dollars for non-members. Price includes motor coach, coffee breaks, roast beef dinner, guides, all taxes and gratuities.

Coach departure time and location: 7:40 am, UW parking lot X (behind Optometry). Free parking for UWRA cars has been arranged with the UW parking authority. Returning to Waterloo at approximately 6:50 pm.

Autumn Countryside
With the autumn colours in full bloom, it’s time to enjoy our Ontario landscapes. And so, we will head up the road, first to Rosemont and the Dufferin County Museum and Archives.

Situated in a rural setting, the museum is built in the style of an Ontario bank barn and strives to collect, preserve and interpret the history of Dufferin County. Our guided tour will reveal thousands of artifacts, including Canadian glass and ceramics, furniture, wagons, agricultural implements, clothing, quilts and photographs. Also, three heritage buildings have been constructed inside the museum.

At noon, we will drive the short distance to the hamlet of Violet Hill and Mrs. Mitchell’s Restaurant, located in a former schoolhouse (1889). The dining room is decorated in a warm, country style and features a beautiful open fireplace. Here, we will be served a delicious lunch, including “a basket of sweet potato muffins & hot drop biscuits”!

In the afternoon, we will journey south to Kleinburg and the renowned McMichael Canadian Art Collection. Built of hand-hewn logs, the McMichael houses thirteen exhibit galleries and is situated amid 100 acres of serene conservation land. Floor-to-ceiling windows enable visitors to enjoy marvellous views of the Humber River Valley. Our guided tour will include works by the Group of Seven.

Cost: $70 dollars for UWRA members and guests; $75 for non-members. Price includes motor coach, museum admissions and guided tours, lunch, all taxes and gratuities.

Coach departure time and location: 8:30 am, parking lot X (behind Optometry). Free parking for UWRA cars has been arranged with the UW parking authority. Returning to Waterloo at approximately 5:30 pm.

CANCELLATION POLICY
Because we must pay our suppliers for numbers reserved in advance, we regret that we cannot offer refunds for cancellations made within seven days of the trip departure date. We do maintain a waiting list when applicable and if a replacement can be found within a reasonable time, a refund may then be made. If you find on the morning of departure that you must cancel, please call Terry Weldon at 519-744-3246, at least one hour prior to departure time to avoid delaying the group. Thank you.

Membership in UWRA

The bylaws of UWRA defines membership as follows:

Categories of membership:
1. Annual Subscribing Members (ASM) – those retirees who pay the annual fee (currently $10).
2. Lifetime Subscribing Members (LSM) – those retirees who pay the lifetime fee (currently $100).
3. Associate Members (AM) – those retirees who elect not to pay either the annual or lifetime fee.

What is your membership status?
The line above your name, in the mailing address printed below, shows the status of your membership: for example, DEC2009 indicates that you are an ASM with your fee paid up to that date. LIFE2004 shows that you became an LSM in 2004, while an empty space reveals that you are an AM of UWRA.

To become a Life or Annual subscribing member, or to renew an annual membership, please complete the form below. This application form is printed in each issue of WATtimes as a reminder to members, and is not intended to suggest that paid up members are in arrears. On those occasions when paid up members send in an extra payment, it is our custom to extend the expiry date by one year.

Please note: Changes of address should be sent directly to Wanda Speek in Human Resources, GSC, Room 130.
