Climate change impacts insurers, pension funds and other financial institutions, and hence the work of actuaries. As a profession, actuaries have the responsibility to help their clients understand and manage climate risks.