“It’s one thing to teach students in a classroom about how to look at deals, manage a portfolio, and invest. But it’s another to give them hands-on training in these activities.”

- TIM JACKSON
SVF Chair, President &
CEO at SHAD Network

The School of Accounting and Finance at the University of Waterloo will leverage our people and the University’s strengths to align our combined resources and energy towards our mission:

Transforming the professions, world-class research and experiential education

As a School composed of students, faculty and staff, we will transform the accounting and finance professions in two ways. First, through the world-class research conducted by our faculty and disseminated to the business community, policy makers and standard setters. Second, our graduates will transform the professions through the impact that they will have in their careers based on the capabilities that they develop through experiential education at Waterloo.
