Description ⓘ

This is an introductory course for students with little or no previous knowledge of Korean. Through this course, students will learn to read and write the Korean alphabet, pronounce Korean syllables, and understand basic Korean sentence structures. They will also practice holding basic conversations: making simple greetings, introducing oneself, talking about likes and dislikes, and asking for directions. Students will also gain insights into Korean culture.

Existing
Description ⓘ

An introductory course for students who have no or little knowledge of Korean to develop listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills along with a sound basis of grammar. The distinctive features of the Korean language and writing system are introduced. Practical oral, reading, and writing exercises develop the students' grammatical skills. Particular emphasis is placed on the acquisition of a basic working vocabulary.

Description ⓘ

This course is for students who have completed KOREA101R or have equivalent proficiency. Students will learn to hold functional conversations on familiar daily situations such as ordering food, shopping, accepting invitations to parties, and making and accepting suggestions. They will deepen their understanding of basic grammatical structures (particularly verb conjugations) and sentence constructions and expand their vocabulary. Students will also gain insights into Korean culture.

Existing
Description ⓘ

Students deepen their understanding of basic grammatical (particularly verb, noun, and adverb) forms and sentence construction and enlarge their general vocabulary. Reading ability is expanded, and more attention is given to idiomatic expressions and the use of the language in actual contexts.
