Description ⓘ

This introductory course is designed for students with little or no prior knowledge of Chinese. Students will develop fundamental skills in listening, speaking, reading, and writing, while exploring aspects of Chinese history and culture. By the end of the course, students will confidently recognize and write over 100 essential Chinese characters, employ basic sentence structures, and engage in simple daily conversations.

Existing
Description ⓘ

An introductory course for students who have little or no prior background in writing, speaking, or understanding any dialect of the Chinese language to develop basic listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills. Practical oral and written exercises provide a firm grammatical foundation for further study.

Description ⓘ

This course is designed for students who have some background in Chinese (i.e., they speak Chinese but cannot read or write, or they read Chinese characters, but cannot speak Putonghua or modern standard Chinese). Students will cover content from CHINA101R and CHINA102R in a single term, strengthening their language skills, grammatical knowledge, and vocabulary range.

Existing
Description ⓘ

Equivalent to CHINA101R and CHINA102R but covered in one term. This introductory Chinese course is designed for two major groups of students who have different initial advantages in learning Chinese: 1) students who have substantial aural-oral proficiency but limited ability in reading and writing Chinese characters and 2) those who know characters but cannot speak Mandarin (Putonghua).
