Course Description and Learning Outcomes

Course Description

This course explores the meaning of diversity from social work and social justice perspectives. The notions of “self” and “others” are at the core of understanding diversity, as are the concepts of

- power,
- privilege,
- oppression,
- discrimination,
- stereotypes,
- prejudice,
- multidimensionality, and
- intersectionality.

The course provides grounding in the meaning of various forms of diversity found in the contemporary Canadian society, and links them with theoretical frameworks and approaches relevant to social work practice at micro, mezzo, and macro levels. The course requires students to engage in deep and critical reflection as well as to participate actively in the discussion forums.

Learning Outcomes

By the end of this course, students will be able to

- understand the meaning of diversity from social work and social justice perspectives;
- deeply reflect upon the notions of “self” and “others;”
- develop an awareness of personal beliefs and attitudes regarding diversity and how these are shaped;
- critically examine the concepts of power, privilege, oppression, discrimination, prejudice, stereotypes, pluralism, multiculturalism, multidimensionality, and intersectionality;
- understand various forms of diversity and “isms” found in Canadian society and their relevance to social work practice;
- critically examine theoretical frameworks and social work practice approaches as they relate to diversity within Canadian society; and
- conduct culturally sensitive, inclusive, and egalitarian social work practice with individuals, families, groups and communities.
