

Libby Duckworth is a Senior Manager in KPMG's Risk Consulting practice based in Toronto, specializing in delivering internal audit, operational and governance services to public sector and healthcare clients. Over her time with the firm, Libby has worked on a number of internal audits, operational reviews and governance engagements. Her work has covered a number of industries with the majority of her time has been spent in the public sector, working with large health care providers and other government organizations.