

Severin Grabski is a Professor in the Department of Accounting & Information Systems, the Eli Broad College of Business, Michigan State University. He was the faculty director for MS-Business Analytics program (2017-2021) in the Broad College. Prior to that he was Senior Faculty Advisor for Instructional Technology to the CIO at Michigan State University (2006-2017). In addition to his appointment at Michigan State University, he was a Visiting Professor at the University of Tasmania in 1999. Dr. Grabski received his Ph.D. from Arizona State University (1983), and M.B.A. from Marquette University (1977) and is Certified Management Accountant.

Dr. Grabski has numerous publications in academic journals including MIS Quarterly, Decision Sciences, Journal of the Association for Information Systems, The Journal of Information Systems, Information Technology & People, Cornell Quarterly, Journal of Applied Social Psychology, International Journal of Accounting Information Systems, and the Journal of Accounting Literature. He has also contributed chapters for various books including Researching Accounting as an Information Systems Discipline, Enterprise Systems: ERP, Implementation and Effectiveness, and Expert Systems in Developing Countries: Practice and Promise. He was a keynote speaker at the 15th International Conference on Enterprise Systems, Accounting and Logistics (Kefalonia, Greece), and also at the 9th International Symposium on Accounting Information Systems (Melbourne) and has presented numerous papers at other academic conferences.

Professor Grabski is currently co-Editor-in-Chief of the International Journal of Accounting Information Systems. He is a member of the editorial board of the Journal of Information Systems and has served as an ad hoc reviewer for numerous journals including MIS Quarterly, The Accounting Review, Decision Sciences, Accounting Horizons, DATA BASE, Computing Surveys, Journal of Emerging Technologies in Accounting, Journal of Database Management, and Accounting Forum. He has been active in the American Accounting Association and is Past-President of both the Information Systems (IS), and Artificial Intelligence/Emerging Technologies (now known as Strategic and Emerging Technologies - SET) Sections of the American Accounting Association. He has received Outstanding Researcher and also an Outstanding Educator awards from the SET Section and has received a Notable Contribution to the Literature award from the IS Section. He was a recipient of the 2018 Teaching Innovation Award from the American Tax Association of the American Accounting Association.

Dr. Grabski's research interest/areas of expertise are in the semantic modeling of accounting information systems and enterprise resource planning systems, and the evaluation of the impact of both cloud computing and ERP systems on organizations and organizational performance. His current research interests include the implication of blockchain for accounting and auditing. Professor Grabski has taught a variety of classes. On the undergraduate level, he taught the Accounting Information Systems, and Computer Auditing. On the master's level he is currently teaching an Enterprise Resource Planning and Accounting Analytics. He has also taught Accounting and Business Data Communications, Analysis and Design of Enterprise Systems, along with doctoral seminars.